

Muzzle

"The man who made a mistake and didn't correct it, made another mistake."

Japanese proverb.

Once again, we address you with the same enthusiasm that motivated us to dream again. It's no longer just about writing a perfect ideal; born from the soul of decentralization, but about being able to come together with the wisdom of what we've learned and set new goals based on the pillars of organization, vision, work, and perseverance, which must, by rule, form a true decentralization.

We call for a call to unity, where the consensus of an organized community can establish its destiny. We want to build technological tools and diversify into different development models, but guarded under a single economic system, without the ties of interests of leaders and small minorities that distort opportunities for the rest of the people.

Muzzle comes to be the rule, like a window the lock. A window, when you turn it into the door of a group of interests, becomes a law of the funnel, where only a few breaths and at the end of a line, many people have left aside and trapped. It's time to muzzle anything abusive and not permissible.

Today, as mere nobodies, we are clearer than ever that nothing is sustained by divine work, that no plant grows without being tended, and that every dog bites when it no longer recognizes its members or family.

Muzzle is for and by decentralization. The project starts with a very simple and basic structure to explain, but at the same time very solid to build on. We start from the premise that in a decentralized structure, there are no leaders where any absolute control or protagonism rests.

The first change is to give a system of true voting power to the community. If you throw away the keys to a token, everything that can happen will depend on you. But, on this occasion, to exercise the power of decision, we are working on a system where all users will have a Soulbound Token, which will be non-transferable and cannot be sold. You should know that, when the time comes, you will receive instructions on how to have this Muzzle identity, for which you will not pay anything. Because the first error to correct is that you can't say that you give power to the community when there is no traceability mechanism to execute it, and the decisions end up in the hands of a group of developers who, in theory, are decentralized, but in practice, all decisions, good or bad, are made by whim.

With your Soul Bound Token from Muzzle, you can grant voting rights to community members in important DAO decisions. These tokens will be linked to the member's soul and can only be transferred if the member leaves the community. With this verification and traceability system on the blockchain, you can help us direct the destiny of the Muzzle economy. This system will be protected against bots and people whose intentions harm the community and who focus solely on bleeding the project.

We appreciate every person who slowly joins our official networks, which were created to communicate and prevent them from receiving information that could defraud them. Please never pay attention to any private message from people who call themselves the Muzzle team because we will never ask you for money or traffic any information. All the developers who founded this idea are one more, and we cannot and should not abuse our opportunity.

It's time to confirm that we will never create another currency to obtain liquidity. Muzzle is the only one for the entire ecosystem, and it is the community that will make this currency great. Our goal is simple: to build different developments that diversify economic income models. Therefore, it is important to communicate that our goal is not to be repetitive and boring with swap stories and coins over coins. We deeply believe that nothing lives over time if it does not have adoption, which is why the developments to present to the community are all software that brings together the qualities of being scalable and services that can be used by a grandparent, a company, or people who consume cryptocurrencies or not.

It's time to create an educated community with clear and sensible goals that serve as bridges to other real-life projects. We must differentiate that we are a decentralization with organizational capacity, and this is not the same as a decentralization that is built only on willpower.

Each of the planned measures was evaluated many months ago, meanwhile, we learned not only from mistakes but also from the behavior and interest of the markets in silence.

Dear founders of Muzzle, the most important thing is that you never make decisions without being convinced that it is the right thing for each of you. Later on, we will be presenting each point separately of the project and the vision of how we want to build this project together in detail. The current website is official but not the development website, which remains under construction due to security and team decisions.

Everything we need to scale each stage will be in it. And we talk about scaling because we didn't come to be false messiahs promising to open seas in days. Muzzle is a project that scales and will be built in the time that the community and its economy dictate.

A new journey begins to show the true meaning of decentralization and the forgotten or private vision by big egos and centralized minds.
